

INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF VENUE MANAGERS REGION 5

A letter from the director

It's with mixed emotions that I write this, my final column as your Region 5 chair. On June 7 I will assume the role of Chair of the Board of Regents for Venue Management School. Per association bylaws, an individual cannot serve in two board positions simultaneously, so I will tender my resignation as Region Chair on that day. At that time, current vice chair Courtney Dyer will be appointed to complete my term on the board. While Region 5 has always been my home, I feel that I can best serve the association through VMS. I'd like to take this time to thank my family, my staff in Tupelo, the 2012 Region 5 nominating committee who first asked me to serve in the various board roles, and to each of you as members of the best region in IAVM. And a special thank you to my first boss in the venue industry - Terry Butler. Terry understood the importance of IAVM and that by working together we can make our industry stronger. In that spirit, I encourage each of you to find a way to get involved in YOUR association. And if I can ever be of assistance to you in any way, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Todd Hunt

The New Orleans Ernest N. Morial Convention Center has received a "Safest 70" award from the Louisiana Workers Compensation Corporation (LWCC), the largest workers' compensation carrier in the state. The award acknowledges excellence, outstanding performance, and commitment to workplace safety, and is given to the top 70 of over 16,000 entities insured by LWCC.

The New Orleans Ernest N. Morial Convention Center was recognized based on the effectiveness of their safety efforts in preventing injuries and maintaining a consistent workplace safety history in 2017.

"It is an honor for our facility to be recognized by LWCC," said Michael J. Sawaya, President and General Manager of the New Orleans Ernest N. Morial Convention Center. "Providing a safe work environment is our highest priority and is a team effort. We consider our employees internal customers and value their input while collaborating on ways to continuously improve our facility. Philosophically, this in turn results in a safer environment for our patrons/external customers as well."

NEW ORLEANS - Exhibition Hall Authority Board Adopts Five-Year Convention Center Capital Improvement Plan

The Ernest N. Morial New Orleans Exhibition Hall Authority ("the Authority") adopted a $557

million five-year capital improvement plan that includes renovations of the 34-year old Morial Convention Center ("Center"), as well as lays the foundation for development of new facilities that include a Convention Center Headquarters Hotel with a physical connection to the Center.

Other major capital improvement projects approved by the Authority Board at Wednesday's meeting include development of a 7.5 acre pedestrian park that spans the length of the Center along Convention Center Boulevard, creating a safer and more diverse experience for both visitors and residents. The pedestrian park project scope includes creation of a transportation center connected to the Center via a covered walkway as well as outdoor entertainment spaces, seating areas, public art and water features. Construction on Convention Center Boulevard is scheduled to begin this summer with expected completion in 2020.

Additional enhancements to the facility include meeting room and public area renovations to modernize the Center using a more contemporary design commensurate with newer facilities developed around the U.S. The five-year capital improvement plan includes annual capital investments to ensure the Center is maintained to a first-class facility standard.

COLUMBIA - Columbia Metropolitan Convention Center

The Columbia Metropolitan Convention Center in Columbia, SC debuted a new rooftop aeroponic herb tower in April. We are growing various herbs such as cilantro, thyme, chives, parsley and rosemary and staff rotates in shifts to assist with the structure's care. Chef Tommy Kasperski with Spectra, our in-house catering company, is harvesting these herbs for use in the kitchen.

The idea for this sustainability initiative stemmed from the Don't Waste Food SC Summit in a neighboring city, which a couple of our staff members attended.

NASHVILLE - Music City Center Celebrates Five Years

The Music City Center celebrated its fifth anniversary this weekend. Since opening its doors on May 20, 2013, the Music City Center has served the community by attracting regional and national events that generate significant economic benefit for the citizens of Nashville.

In its first five years, the Music City Center hosted 1,500 events, bringing 2.8 million people to Nashville and generating over $1.5 billion dollars in direct economic impact. The equates to about $950,000 of direct economic impact generated every single day. Tax collections and operating results have continued to exceed expectations, and each year the Music City Center portion of tax collections have seen double digit year over year growth.

The Music City Center also achieved 47.9 percent DBE participation in its first five years, spending $10.8 million with minority, women-owned and small businesses. Additionally, the Music City Center has hosted 300 local nonprofit events since opening.

"I'm not sure anyone fully anticipated what a success our first five years would be and we do not see that slowing at all. Future bookings are at an all-time high and the feedback from our customers is overwhelmingly positive," said Charles Starks, President/CEO of Music City Center. "There is no doubt in my mind that we could not do what we do without the people of Nashville and we are so grateful for their support."
